

BIOGRAPHY

Alan Webb – JM Envirofuels

Alan is a Chartered Waste Manager (MCIWM) with over 20 years' experience spanning the transition from disposal through to the development and continued growth of the recycling industry.

In his Operational roles Alan has developed and led recycling initiatives for major waste companies and local authorities, and sat on the Business Resource Efficiency and Waste (BREW) Panel before successfully transferring his skills to Tendering and Business Development.

Alan now heads up JM Envirofuels, the fuel supply arm of the Jack Moody Group of Companies, which provides a range of recycled wood fuel products for domestic, commercial, industrial and Biomass Power Station use.

JM Envirofuels develops, manages and markets fuel products from the Jack Moody Recycling businesses, and Alan works with similar independent suppliers across the UK in delivering renewable fuel solutions for a wide range of customers.
